

Krushnarvind Babalbhai (KB) Patel, MVSc

KB Patel, graduated (1995) and post graduated (1998) from College of Veterinary Science and Animal Husbandry, Anand, Gujarat. He is Jt. Secretary and founder member of LASA, India, Convener of Training and Certification committee, and ad hoc specialist for AAALAC International. Attended many national & international meetings and courses in the field of laboratory animal science. During his 18 years of career, he received extensive experience in leading laboratory animal care and use program including operations, management, veterinary, regulatory, personnel training and facility design at AAALAC International accredited pharmaceutical institutions. Well versed with AAALAC International processes, GLP practices, transgenic technology, rodent breeding, drug discovery processes, collaborative service support to several research groups in a wide range of species. One year worth of great learning in GMP environment of Human Rabies vaccine in-vivo testing as a part of QC team. Finally, he reached very close to patient in Hospital cum University environment at ILBS, New Delhi. Currently, he is establishing animal care and use program to support applicable, basic and translation research in world class hospital set-up as a chief veterinary officer, which has a research focus in area of liver and biliary sciences.